

Gadget Maker or Service Provider?

Remember when Nokia used to be just a cellphone maker? How about just a few years ago when all Google was solely an Internet company. It seems now Nokia wants to be an Internet company and Google, according to non-stop speculation among bloggers and technology analysts, may be about to enter the crowded and cut throat, mobile phone fray. Full article