New CENTURION Platinum Luxury Watches From Grieb & Benzinger

Grieb & Benzinger has just announced their latest creation of gorgeous, skeleton watches — the CENTURION and CENTURION IMPERIAL.

The two new luxury watches continue the tradition at Grieb & Benzinger of creating high quality and beautiful luxury timepieces.

The CENTURION and CENTURION IMPERIAL platinum models are ideal for that watch connoisseur who desires an incredible skeleton watch. Although slightly understated, the luxury watches convey pure luxury with head turning looks.

The driving force behind the new Grieb & Benzinger luxury watches comes from its own CEO Georg Bartkowiak. He used the inspiration of the luxury watch brand's best selling model — the Black Tulip — to create stunning platinum versions.

Creating a final watch with an all-black appearance has produced an incredible look. The understated value of solid Platinum (PT950) under the watch's blackened surface is genius. The craftsmanship of the pure hand-skeletonization will definitely appeal to fine watch connoisseurs who simply desire the very best.

What I love about these two new watch designs is how the luxury watchmaker has brilliantly blended the understated look along with an unbelievable bezel pavé set that features with 66 red diamonds. These beautiful diamonds come in the exclusive Princess cut.

The bespoke CENTURION skeleton watch from Grieb & Benzinger has a blackened manually wound movement and is fully skeletonized. It has a guilloché design and has been carefully engraved by hand. The solid, platinum PT950 case is completely blackened and is 43 mm in diameter. This fine watch features a black alligator-skin strap and a solid platinum PT950 blackened buckle.
