

Amilla Maldives To Become World's First Accessibility and Inclusion Certified Resort

The private island, Amilla Maldives Resort will become the first accessibility and inclusion certified resort in the world. The luxury resort undergoes adaptations and education to welcome disabled guests from around the world.

Amilla Maldives Resort and Residences agrees to commit and embrace "total-guest-inclusion." Accessible and inclusive hospitality experts Inlucare is assisting in the transformation. For example, the effort will allow all employees deliver inclusion excellence at every single moment of a resort guest's experience. Audit are ongoing to determine opportunities for change. As a result, any needed physical adjustments or adaptations will be made.

Amilla Maldives is on track to become the first Inlucare-certified resort in the world. That is an amazing accomplishment. The ceremony occurred last week on July 26th. It is also a special date. It is also Maldives' Independence Day and will culminate Amilla's Maldives Cultural Week.

This luxurious Maldives resort already offered numerous, easy-access ground floor villas. They include wide doorways and accessible showers and a beach wheelchair. In addition, there is a floating wheelchair for swimming, as well as in-villa phones for the hearing impaired.

A few of the planned innovations include – deaf-alert systems, adaptive yoga and snorkeling adventures. Continuing, are sensory touch, aroma and sound experiences through the jungle for vision-impaired guests. Guest will also enjoy "calming spaces” to regulate sensory input. Therefore, guests with Autism, dementia or learning difficulties can control their emotions, reducing stress and anxiety.

Ganthan Halleem is the resort Director and commented, “This is something close to our hearts; differences are welcome and we aim to make everyone feel at home here. We hope that this collaboration, including the learning by our local team members, will also translate back into the local community.”

The magical Maldives is known across the globe for its paradisiacal isolation. For example, the sandy island paths, beaches, water jetties, villas and restaurants are spectacular. The luxury amenities available on the archipelago remain an the exclusive domain for non-disabled visitors. With the upcoming changes, the island resort will be a dream-destination for all guests. guests with additional mobility, sensory or cognitive requirements, who would come if they only believed they could.

Amilla Maldives Resort and Residences will become an “inclusive dream-destination for all.”

The Life of Luxury has the expertise to help you plan and book your next luxury vacation. Plus, we offer VIP experiences around the world. For example, attend red carpet award shows, art and fashion shows, movie premieres and sporting events. Are you ready to start living a life of luxury?

Consider a luxury stay at the incredible Amilla Maldives Resort and Residences and enjoy the Maldives. Return soon to read about other luxury travel destinations.

Photos: Amilla Maldives Resort